SENIORS LEADS HUSKERS INTO HANKINS ERA

Jace Guthmiller returns for his senior year after leading the Huskers with a 73.48 stroke average. One of Nebraska's most consistent golfers last season, Guthmiller earned three top-25 finishes and set a career-best 54-hole score of 215 at the Wyoming Desert Intercollegiate in February.

First-year coach Mark Hankins inherits a veteran group of Huskers as his team gets set to tee off for his inaugural season at Nebraska. The nine-man roster is made up of four seniors, two juniors, two sophomores and a freshman. After finishing 11th at the 2018 Big Ten Championships, the team is motivated to push for a top-half conference finish.

Seniors Jace Guthmiller, Dylan McCabe, Sean Song and Jackson Wendling will be looked to for leadership in their final season as Huskers.

Guthmiller is coming off his best season as a Husker, when he led the team with an average of 73.48 strokes per round. He captured three top-25 finishes and was the top finisher on six occasions throughout the year.

McCabe competed in four of the team's 10 stroke-play tournaments on the year and finished with a 76.67 stroke average, which was good for fourth on the team.

Song heads into his final year following a campaign in which he posted a stroke average of 76.90 over 20 rounds. He has improved his stroke average in each of his three years on campus and looks to be a consistent contributor to the lineup in his final season.

Wendling took perhaps the biggest jump of any Husker from his sophomore to his junior season, as he posted a 74.76 stroke average, which ranked second on the team. He improved his average by two strokes from his sophomore campaign and earned a spot in each of the team's 29 rounds in 2017-18.

Juniors Cameron Jones and Tanner Owen competed in seven of the 10 stroke-play events for the Huskers last season. Jones had his best performance at the Big Ten Championships in April, when he shot a 219 and tied for 28th. His 75.81 stroke average was good for third on the team.

Owen will look to build off a 2017-18 campaign in which he produces NU's top finish at two tournaments while also going 2-1 at the Big Ten Match Play Championships.

Sophomore Daniel Pearson returns for his second year after competing in seven of Nebraska's 10 stroke-play tournaments as a freshman. He plans to build off a year that included two top-60 finishes and a career-best 71 in the second round of the Quail Valley Collegiate Invitational. His 77.20 stroke average ranked seventh among the Huskers.

Patrick Clare joins Pearson in Nebraska's sophomore class. He participated in two of Jackson Wendling is one of four seniors who will be counted to lead the Huskers in 2018-19. Wendling was Nebraska's top finisher in four tournaments in 2017-18.

Nebraska's 10 stroke-play tournaments and finished with an 81.00 stroke average.

One of Coach Mark Hankins' top priorities in his first season at Nebraska was to upgrade the Huskers' schedule. Mission accomplished. In just a few short months, Hankins organized a schedule that will put the Huskers in some of the top tournaments on the top golf courses in the nation.

Nebraska opens the fall at the Rod Myers Invitational, Sept. 8-9. The tournament at the Duke University Golf Club in Durham, N.C., precedes a trip to the Cardinal Regional Challenge at the University of Louisville Golf Club in Kentucky, Sept. 14-15.

BIG TEN CONFERENCE

James E. Delany
Commissioner

Known as one of intercollegiate sports' most successful undertakings, the Big Ten is home to a lineage of legendary names and an ongoing tradition of developing strong leaders. Even in its infancy, the conference established itself as the preeminent collection of institutions in the nation, where the pursuit of academic excellence prevailed as the definitive goal.

The history of the Big Ten traces back more than 120 years to the Palmer House hotel in Chicago, where on Jan. 11, 1895, then-Purdue president James H. Smart and leaders from the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, Northwestern University and University of Wisconsin set out to organize and develop principles for the regulation of intercollegiate athletics.

At that meeting, a blueprint for the administration of college athletics under the direction of appointed faculty representatives was outlined. The presidents' first known action "restricted eligibility for athletics to bonafide, full-time students who were not delinquent in their studies." That important legislation, along with other legislation that would follow in the coming years, served as the primary building block for intercollegiate athletics.

On Feb. 8, 1896, one faculty member from each of those seven universities met at the same Palmer House and officially established the mechanics of the conference, which was officially incorporated as the "Intercollegiate Conference Athletic Association" in 1905.

Indiana University and the State University of Iowa became the eighth and ninth members in 1899. In 1908, Michigan briefly withdrew its membership, and in 1912 Ohio State University joined the conference, bringing its membership total back to nine. Upon Michigan's return in 1917, the conference was first referred to as the "Big Ten" by media members, and that name was eventually incorporated in 1987.

As the 1900s opened, faculty representatives established rules for intercollegiate athletics that were novel for the time. As early as 1904, the faculty approved legislation that required eligible athletes to meet entrance requirements and to have completed a full year's work, along with having one year of residence.

In 1901, the first Big Ten Championship event was staged when the outdoor track and field championships were held at the University of Chicago. The debut event marked what is now a staple of conference competition. Today, the Big Ten sponsors 28 official sports, 14 for men and 14 for women, including the addition of men's ice hockey and men's and women's lacrosse over the last three years. Big Ten schools compete in a total of 42 sports, furthering the conference's commitment to broad-based programming and providing more participation opportunities than any conference in the country.

One of the conference's proudest traditions began in 1902 when Michigan took on Stanford in the Rose Bowl, the nation's first bowl game. Big Ten teams only appeared in Pasadena twice before the conference signed an exclusive contract with the Tournament of Roses in 1946, making it the first bowl game with permanent conference affiliations. But Michigan's appearance in 1902 cultivated a relationship that has endured for more than a century. In January 2014, Michigan State defeated Stanford in the 100th Rose Bowl Game.

Coupling the academic goals set forth by the leaders of the charter members of the conference and their steadfast commitment to athletics, the conference instituted the Big Ten Medal of Honor in 1915. It is awarded annually by each conference institution to a student of the graduating class who has attained the greatest proficiency in scholarship and athletics. It is the most prestigious honor a student competing in Big Ten athletics can receive.

In 1922, Major John L. Griffith became the conference's first "Commissioner of Athletics." Griffith was the first of five men to assume the role of commissioner in the conference's history, followed by Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson in 1945, Bill Reed in 1961, Wayne Duke in 1971 and current commissioner James E. Delany in 1989.

After nearly 30 years with 10 members, the conference consolidated to nine schools when the University of Chicago formally withdrew its membership in 1946. Michigan State College (now Michigan State University) was added to the Big Ten three years later, bringing the number of affiliated conference schools to 10 once again.

In 1955, the Big Ten formulated a revenue-sharing model designed to pool all football television rights of its members and share those proceeds equally. The conference and its members continue to utilize a revenue-sharing model, dividing media rights, bowl payouts and other profits among all conference institutions.

While academics have always played an integral role in the conference, presidents of the Big Ten member institutions formalized the primacy of academics with the establishment of the Big Ten Academic Alliance (formerly the Committee on Institutional Cooperation) in 1958. The Big Ten Academic Alliance is an academic consortium of all Big Ten universities. In 2014, the schools currently constituting the Big Ten Academic Alliance produced over $10 billion in funded research, $5 billion more than any other conference.

In one of Duke's first actions as commissioner, he oversaw the adoption of the Big Ten Advisory Commission in 1972, designed to study conference programs and make suggestions which would further Big Ten objectives. The Advisory Commission enlists former students that competed in Big Ten athletics to serve as liaisons to the NCAA's Diversity and Inclusion Department, the Big Ten Student-Athlete Advisory Commission and other organizations.

In 1981, the conference presidents and chancellors endorsed a proposal that enabled universities to affiliate their women's intercollegiate programs with the conference, and the first conference championships for women were staged that fall. The Big Ten was the first conference to voluntarily adopt male and female participation goals after launching its Gender Equity Action Plan in 1992.

In December of 1989, the conference agreed in principle to invite Pennsylvania State University for membership. On June 4, 1990, the Council of Presidents officially voted to integrate Penn State into the conference, giving the Big Ten 11 members.

In 2004, the Big Ten implemented a pilot program of instant replay for college football. Following the season, the conference forwarded replay proposals to the NCAA regarding the future use of instant replay, where it approved country-wide testing in 2005. In 2006, the NCAA approved the use of instant replay for all conferences.

In 2006, Delany announced the creation of the first conference-owned television network, a 20-year agreement with FOX Networks to create what would become the Big Ten Network (BTN). Launched on Aug. 30, 2007, BTN now produces more than 1,000 events across all platforms each year. BTN is in more than 60 million homes in the U.S. and Canada via the nation's major cable, satellite and telco providers and more than 300 additional cable operators across the country. BTN2Go is the digital extension of BTN, delivering live and on-demand programming to computers, smartphones and tablets and also is accessible outside the U.S., Canada and the Caribbean via BTN2Go International.

On June 11, 2010, the Big Ten Council of Presidents/Chancellors (COP/C) approved a formal membership application by the University of Nebraska, expanding the conference to 12 institutions. Nebraska officially joined the Big Ten on July 1, 2011.

The conference expanded its footprint further in 2012 when the COP/C approved formal membership applications from the University of Maryland and Rutgers on November 19 and 20, respectively. Maryland and Rutgers became official Big Ten members on July 1, 2014, giving the conference almost 9,500 students participating in intercollegiate athletics and more than 11,000 participation opportunities on 350 teams.

Since opening in the fall of 2013, the Big Ten conference center has hosted more than 300 meetings annually for member institutions, Big Ten Academic Alliance (formerly CIC) related committees and coaches groups. The headquarters also features an interactive digital museum - the Big Ten Experience - which opened to the public on June 7, 2014, and brings the conference's storied academic and athletic history to life. For more information on the Big Ten Experience, go to bigten.org.

In June 2014, the Big Ten opened a second office in New York City, featuring both office and meeting space in Midtown Manhattan. Big Ten staff members are based in the New York City office to provide expanded coverage and service, while other conference and institutional administrators utilize the space as necessary when conducting business on the East Coast. The Big Ten and its member institutions also have access to satellite office space in Washington, D.C.

Delany and his staff work to meet the educational needs of students competing in intercollegiate athletics to allow them to excel in all areas of their lives. The conference office manages 28 different championships and tournaments, offers legislative and compliance services, oversees the production and distribution of more than 1,400 events annually, provides staff services to coaching and administrative personnel and services media and fans interest for information on the Big Ten.

More than 120 years after its inception, the Big Ten remains a national leader in intercollegiate athletics on and off the field. Big Ten programs have combined to win more than 450 team and 1,800 individual national championships, consistently taking home individual honors for athletic and academic accomplishments and fulfilling the Big Ten's mission of academic achievement and athletic success.

An outstanding coach with a record of success at the NCAA Division I level and the Big Ten Conference, Mark Hankins was announced as the new head men's golf coach at the University of Nebraska by Athletic Director Bill Moos on June 13, 2018.

"Mark Hankins will bring a track record of proven success in the Big Ten Conference and on the national level to our men's golf program," Moos said. "He has built strong teams at both Michigan State and Iowa, and we look forward to him providing leadership for Nebraska men's golf."

Hankins, who came to Nebraska after serving as an assistant athletic director at the University of Iowa including the past two years as a member of the NCAA Division I Men's Golf Committee, led the Hawkeye golf team to six consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances and 11 team tournament championships from 2009 to 2014 as the head coach.

Hankins coached three All-Americans, 11 first-team All-Big Ten honorees and 16 All-Midwest Region selections during his seven seasons on the course with the Hawkeyes.

Prior to Hankins' arrival in Iowa City, the Hawkeyes finished in last place at the 2007 Big Ten Conference Tournament and 155th in the final national rankings. Two years later, Iowa finished 17th at the 2009 NCAA Championship Finals.

In 2011, Hankins led Iowa to a tie for 10th at the NCAA Championship Finals, before adding a 22nd-place finish at the NCAA Championship Finals in 2012. In those two seasons, three Hawkeyes combined for three All-America awards on the course.

"It is with great enthusiasm that I join the Nebraska Athletic Department and have the opportunity to lead a group of talented young men in striving to put Husker men's golf in a position to compete for Big Ten Championships and selection to the NCAA Men's Golf Championships," Hankins said. "I want to thank Athletic Director Bill Moos and the entire administrative staff who invest daily to insure that every sport program at Nebraska is equipped to succeed at the highest levels academically and athletically."

Prior to his 11 years in the Iowa Athletic Department, Hankins spent eight seasons (2000-07) as the head men's golf coach at Michigan State University. He led the Spartans to five NCAA Tournament appearances from 2002 through 2007, including Big Ten Championship team titles in 2005 and 2007. Hankins was named the Big Ten Coach of the Year in both seasons the Spartans claimed the team crowns. He coached a pair of All-Americans at Michigan State, while 10 Spartans earned first-team All-Big Ten honors and six Spartans earned All-Midwest Region accolades.

Overall, in 15 seasons as a Big Ten men's golf head coach, Hankins coached five All-Americans, 21 golfers who earned All-Big Ten honors, including two Big Ten Players of the Year and a Big Ten Freshman of the Year. His student-athletes also Mavericks to the NCAA Tournament both seasons, including a share of the Southland Conference title in 1999.

In 20 seasons of collegiate coaching, Hankins helped 15 teams to NCAA Division I Tournament appearances, including 13 bids as a head coach.

He began his collegiate coaching career with three seasons at Iowa State from 1994 through 1997. He served as assistant coach for both men's and women's teams before serving as the associate head coach for the Cyclones men's golf program. He helped the ISU men's program to the NCAA Tournament in 1996 and 1997, while the Cyclones claimed a trio of team tournament titles in those two seasons.

As an athletic administrator, Hankins has also distinguished himself. In addition to his representation on the NCAA Men's Golf Committee the past two years, Hankins has served for three years on the Big Ten Sports Management Committee and as the Big Ten golf coaches liaison. He has also spent two seasons on the Big Ten Scheduling Committee.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR SECOND YEAR

Honor the past. Live the present. Create the future.

Nine simple words that carry impressive significance and undeniable responsibility. Words that Nebraska's new athletic director uses to lead his programs and set the tone for building champions in competition and in life.

William H. (Bill) Moos was named Nebraska's Athletic Director on Oct. 15, 2017, and fully assumed those responsibilities on Oct. 23.

Moos, who became the 15th athletic director in the history of the storied Cornhusker program, brings nearly 25 years of experience as an athletic director at three Division I schools (Washington State, Oregon, Montana) with him to Nebraska. More importantly, he brings an impressive track record of success in building outstanding programs, developing long-term relationships, and for doing what is best for his schools, its fans and most importantly, its student-athletes.

"When you name the top three, four, five athletic programs in the great positions as an athletic director, Nebraska is in that same breath," Moos said at his introductory press conference at Memorial Stadium. "I want you to know that my motto has always been, in the 25 years I have been a Division I athletic director and it will be here too is very simple - honor the past, live the present, create the future."

In his first six months at Nebraska, Moos made three coaching hires. He drew universal praise for hiring Scott Frost, the 2017 consensus national coach of the year, as Nebraska's head football coach in December. Following the spring semester, Moos also hired Mark Hankins to coach the men's golf team and Sean Maymi to lead the men's tennis program.

Moos also oversaw several team successes in his first six months in Lincoln. He watched the volleyball team win its fifth national title and second in three seasons in December. In 2018, both the men's and women's gymnastics teams finished in the top six at the NCAA Championships, while bowling finished third and rifle finished eighth. Nebraska also continued its excellence in the classroom, producing four CoSIDA Academic All-Americans, including three first-team selections. The awards increased Nebraska's nation-leading total to 333 all-time CoSIDA Academic All-Americans across all sports.

Moos came to Lincoln after spending seven-plus years at Washington State (2010-17). He previously served 12 highly successful seasons as the athletic director at Oregon (1995-2007).

During his time at his alma mater, Moos wasted little time in making his impact felt in Cougar Athletics, spearheading a department-wide rebranding effort with Nike while securing a 10-year, $35 million marketing rights agreement with IMG College.

In addition, the 2004 WSU Alumni Achievement Award winner gained Regents approval for a $130 million addition and remodel of Martin Stadium, featuring a remodeled press box with luxury seating, including suites, loge boxes and club room.

Also included in the project was a state-of-the-art video board and an 80,000-square-foot football operations building that served as the stadium's showpiece and opened in May 2014.

As the dean of Pac-12 athletic directors, Moos was at the forefront of the conference's procurement of a 12-year, $3 billion television contract with FOX and ESPN, a landmark agreement in college athletics. Under Moos' direction, the Cougar Athletic Fund's Annual Giving program saw an 81 percent increase in gifts while CAF donor members rose from nearly 4,000 to more than 7,500.

Additional facility enhancements under Moos included a center-hung video board in Beasley Coliseum that was installed prior to the 2011-12 season, giving Cougar basketball one of the premier fan experiences in the conference. An indoor golf hitting facility was also completed in early 2013, and Lower Soccer Field underwent a major renovation making the venue TV-ready while also providing one of the best playing surfaces on the West Coast, along with the addition of lights and a new scoreboard.

Other enhancements were made to the Moobery track facility, Bailey-Brayton Field, the basketball practice gym, Gibb Pool and the Simmelink Indoor tennis courts. In Moos' seven years at WSU, Cougar student-athletes and coaches accounted for 805 academic all-conference selections, 130 all-conference accolades, 45 All-America honors and three Pac-12 Coach-of-the-Year honors.

Moos served as Oregon's director of athletics from July of 1995 to 2007. While at Oregon he oversaw a 17-sport athletic department that grew to national prominence during his tenure. Oregon's annual athletic department budget grew from $18.5 million in his first year to more than $40 million by 2007, becoming 100 percent self-sufficient during that time. Under his direction the Duck Athletic Fund donor base increased from 4,930 to 12,290, resulting in an annual gifts increase from $4.1 million to $15.3 million.

Moos initiated more than $160 million in facility improvements while at Oregon. Included in that was the $90 million Autzen Stadium renovation in 2002, which added 12,000 new seats, 32 new suites, a new Club at Autzen and a new press box to the stadium. In his 12 years, the Ducks ranked first in Pac-10 football attendance 11 times, reaching 100 percent capacity in each of those seasons.

During Moos' tenure, Oregon athletics captured 13 Pac-10 championships across six different sports. He increased opportunities for women by adding two intercollegiate programs, soccer and lacrosse, and negotiated an all-inclusive shoe and apparel contract with Nike, one of only 14 in the country at the time. From an academic standpoint during Moos' tenure, Oregon student-athletes collected 722 academic all-conference selections, 34 Academic All-America selections, nine NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship recipients and one NCAA Top Ten Award.

During his first stint as a collegiate athletic director at Montana (1990-95), Moos created an academic support program and hired its first athletic academic coordinator, developed a facility enhancement plan that created more than $4 million in improvements, and lifted the school's fund-raising efforts to show a 300 percent increase in private and corporate gifts.

Academically, Montana student-athletes were equally successful as the athletic department achieved a graduation rate 20 percent higher than the general university enrollment. Under Moos' watch Montana garnered 269 academic all-conference selections, five Academic All-Americans and two NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship recipients.

Moos began his athletic career as an athletic administrator in 1982 as assistant athletic director at Washington State. He also served as the school's associate athletic director (1988-90).

At Washington State, he was director of development for more than five years and associate director for nearly two years, supervising all external operations. Prior to that, he managed and owned private businesses in Washington and Oregon for eight years. He was a student assistant football coach at Washington State for the 1973 season, then spent part of 1974 in Washington, D.C., serving as a government intern.

Raised on a wheat and cattle ranch in eastern Washington, Moos attended high school in Olympia when his father served in the governor's cabinet. Moos earned his bachelor's degree in history from WSU and was a three-year letterman in football before concluding his collegiate career by representing Washington State in the 1972 East-West Shrine All-Star Game in San Francisco.

He served as co-captain on the Cougars' 1972 squad and garnered first-team All-Pac-8 Conference honors. Moos and his wife Kendra have three daughters: Christa, Brittany and Kaiti; and two sons, Bo and Benjamin.

HANK M. BOUNDS, PH.D

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA PRESIDENT FOURTH YEAR

On Jan. 12, 2015, the Board of Regents appointed lifelong educator Hank M. Bounds, Ph.D., as the seventh president of the University of Nebraska. Bounds began his tenure as president on April 13, 2015, bringing with him a demonstrated record of expanding opportunities for students, improving higher education outcomes and efficiencies, and building successful partnerships with policymakers, donors and business leaders.

He has continued working to improve educational outcomes and build partnerships since his arrival in Nebraska. Bounds has connected with leaders within the university, in the private sector, in government and in the military to increase collaboration and innovation. In late 2015, he worked with the University of Nebraska Foundation to launch a two-year, $200 million fundraising initiative to increase access and create success for current and future students. In 2015, Bounds also launched a university-wide Food for Health Initiative - the first of several programs designed to increase collaborations across NU and incentivize new research that addresses critical issues important to Nebraskans and result in greater research funding opportunities. Supporting quality teaching is an important focus for Bounds, and in the spring of 2016, he made a $3.5 million strategic investment to hire additional faculty and expand NU's online course offerings. Bounds also announced late in 2015 that NU's enrollment had grown to its highest level in 22 years - marking progress toward the Board of Regents' goals to expand educational access to Nebraskans and attract more talent to the state to meet workforce needs.

Bounds grew up in Mississippi. His service in the Army National Guard helped him pay for college, and he earned bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi and a doctorate from the University of Mississippi.

Bounds has devoted his 25-year career to helping change students' lives in the same way education opened doors in his own life. He began as a high school teacher, then rose to principal, superintendent and state superintendent before becoming Mississippi's commissioner of higher education in 2009. In that role, he oversaw a complex system of eight public universities.

Today, under his leadership, the University of Nebraska enrolls nearly 52,000 students, employs over 13,000 faculty and staff, and operates with an annual budget of $2.5 billion - including $235 million in research expenditures.

He has identified four cornerstones that will separate

NU from the rest of higher education and define a new era in university history: (1) The University of Nebraska will be the best university in the nation to be a student. (2) The University of Nebraska will transform lives through research and innovation. (3) The University of Nebraska will work hand in hand with our partners to achieve our goals. (4) The University of Nebraska will win with people.

Bounds holds a faculty appointment in the College of Education and Human Sciences at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and courtesy faculty appointments in the Colleges of Education at the University of Nebraska at Omaha and the University of Nebraska at Kearney. He serves on the board of directors for several organizations, including the National Association of System Heads (NASH), the Robert B. Daugherty Water for Food Institute, the Nebraska Innovation Campus Development Corporation, the Nebraska Advanced Manufacturing Coalition and the Consultation Committee for U.S. Strategic Command (USSTRATCOM). He is also on the Board of Governors for the Knights of AKSARBEN.

He and his wife, Susie, are the parents of a son, Will, and a daughter, Caroline. They reside in Lincoln.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

The University of Nebraska was chartered by the Nebraska Legislature in 1869 as the state's public university and land-grant institution. Founded in Lincoln, the University of Nebraska was expanded in 1968 into a state educational system now comprising four campuses under the guidance of a Board of Regents and a central administration. Nebraska, which joined the Big Ten Conference in 2011, is a member of the Big Ten Academic Alliance, a consortium of Big Ten universities and the University of Chicago, which has generated unique opportunities for students and faculty by sharing expertise, leveraging resources and collaborating on programs.

BIG TEN ACADEMIC ALLIANCE

As a member of the Big Ten, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) is a member of the Big Ten Academic Alliance (BTAA), formerly the Committee on Institutional Cooperation, which is the academic consortium of the universities in the Big Ten Conference. The consortium was renamed on June 29, 2016. The BTAA includes all 14 Big Ten Institutions and the University of Chicago. The Big Ten Academic Alliances and the institutions together have annual research expenditures topping $10.2 billion — more than the Ivy League and the University of California System combined — and they educate a total of nearly 600,000 students with approximately 50,000 full-time faculty members.

YOUNG HUSKERS MET CHALLENGES IN 2017-18

Tanner Owen led the Huskers with two top-20 finishes as a sophomore in 2017-18. Owen competed in 20 rounds for the Huskers. He tied for 14th at the Hawkeye Invitational and tied for 17th at The Jackrabbit, including a career-best three-round tournament score of 210.

A collection of four juniors, two sophomores and two freshmen showed improved during the season, but the young Huskers struggled throughout the season on their way to an 11th-place Big Ten Conference finish.

Juniors Jace Guthmiller and Jackson Wendling provided Nebraska's most consistently competitive performances throughout the season. Guthmiller competed in all 29 rounds for the Huskers and finished with a team-best 73.48 stroke average. Wendling joined Guthmiller as the only Huskers to compete in all 29 rounds on the year. Wendling finished with a 74.76 stroke average to rank second on the team.

Sophomore Cameron Jones also supplied solid golf while he matured as a player. He finished third on the team with a 75.81 stroke average and produced Nebraska's best finish at the 2018 Big Ten Championships. His tie for 28th at the conference tournament included a career-best 70 in the second round.

Fellow sophomore Tanner Owen also provided some highlights for the Huskers with a pair of top-20 tournament finishes. His career-best tie for 14th at the Hawkeye Invitational followed a tie for 17th that came early in the season at the Jackrabbit Invitational.

Nebraska's season came to an end at the Big Ten Championships in Baltimore. Soon after the conclusion of the season, it was announced that Bill Spangler would not return as Nebraska's head coach after 17 seasons guiding the Huskers.

On June 13, 2018, Mark Hankins was announced as the 12th head coach in the history of the Husker men's golf program.

FALL SEASON

The Huskers opened their season with a 14th-place finish (897) at the Badger Invitational, Sept. 10-12, at University Ridge Golf Course in Madison, Wis. Guthmiller and Wendling each shot 224 to tie for 54th.

Guthmiller recorded his first top-15 performance of the year in NU's next outing at the Maui Jim Intercollegiate, Sept. 22-24, in Carefree, Ariz. Guthmiller tied for 12th after shooting a 54-hole score of 216, while the Huskers placed 12th on the weekend.

Nebraska stayed in state for their third tournament of the fall campaign, taking ninth (858) at the Jackrabbit Invitational, Oct. 1-3, at The Prairie Club in Valentine, Neb. Owen led Nebraska with a 210 (-6) in the 54-hole event, earning one of his team-leading two top-20 finishes.

Nebraska traveled to the Bayou City Collegiate Classic in Pearland Texas, Oct. 9-10 at Golfcrest Country Club. NU finished 12th on the weekend, led by Guthmiller and Wendling, who each shot 218 to tie for 22nd.

NU closed the fall at the Quail Valley Collegiate Invitational in Vero Beach, Fla., Oct. 23-24. Guthmiller, McCabe and Wendling each settled for top-60 finishes as the team took 14th.

SPRING SEASON

The Huskers began their spring season at the Big Ten Match Play Championship, Feb. 9-10, at Hammock Beach Resort in Palm Coast, Fla. Nebraska worked its way to a 3-3 tie with Illinois but dropped contests against Northwestern and Wisconsin.

NU traveled west for the next three tournaments, with the first stop coming in Palm Desert, Calif., at the Wyoming Desert Intercollegiate. Facing difficult competition, the Huskers finished 21st among 23 teams at the tournament.

Two weeks later the Huskers finished 12th at the Desert Mountain Intercollegiate in Scottsdale, Ariz. Wendling finished in a tie for 40th after shooting a 229 over three rounds.

The Big Horn Invitational was next on the schedule, and the Huskers flew out to Palm Desert, Calif., again to compete. Nebraska finished 12th in the event, as Guthmiller led the way with a score of 221 (+5) to tie for 42nd in the 54-hole event. Wendling, Song, Owen and Jones all produced scores between 226 and 230.

The Huskers returned to the Midwest for the Hawkeye Invitational in Iowa City, Iowa April 13-14. The team finished 10th in the 13-team tournament, with Owen tying for 14th individually in the 36-hole competition with a score of 149 (+5). Guthmiller and Song added top-50 showings.

Nebraska's final tournament came at the Big Ten Championships, April 27-29, at Baltimore Country Club in Baltimore, Md. Jones produces his best showing of the year at the three-day championship event, shooting a 219 (+9) to tie for 28th. Guthmiller shot a 222 to finish in the top 40, while Song (+13), Wendling (+15) and Owen (+18) finished in the top 60.

HUSKERS IN PROFESSIONAL GOLF

A four-time letterwinner for the Huskers from 2004 to 2007, Brady Schnell earned his PGA Tour card for the 2019 season by finishing in the top 25 on the Web.com Tour money list in 2018. His 22nd-place finish on the Web.com money list included a victory at the Wichita Open. The Millard West High School graduate has competed on the Web.com Tour since 2010, and he also competed on the PGA Latinoamerica Tour and PGA Tour Canada.

Brady Schnell (Omaha, Nebraska/Mesa, Arizona)

The most recent Husker to earn a spot on the PGA Tour, Brady Schnell claimed his tour money card by finishing 22nd on the Web.com Tour money list in 2018. His $178,081 in earnings in 2018 included a victory in the Wichita Open. Schnell, who is a graduate of Millard West High School, has been pursuing his PGA Tour dream on the Web.com Tour since 2010. He also owns a pair of PGA Latinoamerica Tour victories, and he competed on the PGA Tour Canada in 2009, when he shot an amazing 59 at the ATB Financial Classic in August of 2014. He became just the 16th player on a major professional tour in history to break 60 in a round. Schnell, who has more than $400,000 in career earnings, lists his home club as Superstition Mountain Golf and Country Club in Arizona. His swing coach is Mike Cornell from Champions Run in Omaha. Schnell earned four letters at Nebraska (2004-07).

Scott Gutschewski (Omaha, Nebraska/Elkhorn, Texas)

One of the best professional golfers in Nebraska history, Scott Gutschewski was a three-year letterman at Nebraska in 1997, 1998 and 1999. He was also a member of the Huskers' most successful team - the 1999 squad that finished 14th at the NCAA Championships. Gutschewski spent several years on the Canadian Tour and the Nationwide Tour. He earned his first spot on the PGA Tour in 2005 after finishing 17th on the Nationwide Tour money list in 2004. He added PGA Tour seasons in 2007, 2009 and 2011. He finished in the top 25 on the Nationwide Tour in three separate seasons (2004, 2008, 2010). He earned his 2007 PGA Tour card through qualifying school. He returned to the University of Nebraska to earn his bachelor's degree in professional golf management in 2014. He continues to compete on the Web.com Tour.
